Elder and Mrs. William E. Carpenter and daughters, Lynn and Gale, left last week for Bridgeport, Conn. where he will assume his duties as pastor of the three churches in that district.

Elder Lester Carney, of Madison Heights, brought us a stirring message last Sabbath, Sept. 5 based upon II Kins 5:23. "The Syrians had gone out by companies and had brought away captive out of the land of Isreal a little maid and she visited on Naaman's wife." "And she said unto her mistres, Would God my Lord were with the prophet that is in Samaria for he would recover him of his leprosy."

Mr. Carney said, "We do not know the name of the Hebrew maid but we do know she was living in a sinful and wicked generation. She must have been very young. A little slave girl, away from home, and her parents among strangers and strange customs yet she stood firm for God, her heart was full of love for Him. She also loved Naaman and because of her faith in God, Naaman also believed, and we all know the story how Naaman went to see Elisha the prophet and was healed.

Christ's own words substantiates the story in Luke 4:27 "and many lepers were in Isreal in the time of Eliseus the prophet and none of them was cleansed saving Naaman the Syrian. We all have reverses in life and wonder what tomorrow will bring. Do we become bitter and hardened against God? Ther e is much dross in us that must be consumed away, so trials must come but we too shall come forth as gold tried in the fire if we stand firm.

The minister said, "Many give up too easy, God will give us the same power and faith that the little Hebrew maid had. God is just waiting for us to rise up to work. I challenge you today to begin living your experience, your religion. The church has a destiny to fulfill. Let us not give up too easy, but live so it may be said of us. They have been with Jesus."

Sabbath School — 9:30 a.m.
Worship Service at 11 o'clock
No mid-week Prayer Service due to members attending Elder Carney's Evangelistic meetings in Madison Heights.

When you think about a Gold Medallion home

you don't have to think big

Contrary to what many prospective homeowners think, a Gold Medallion home doesn't have to be expensive. It doesn't take a bit more room to enjoy total electric living. In fact, it takes less for clean flameless electric heating, compact quick-recovery water heating and the many other all-electric conveniences built into every Gold Medallion home. And VEPCO's low home-wide rate means all your electric living is a greater value than ever. Before you decide on a home, whatever the price range, talk to your contractor about building to Gold Medallion standards. Or visit a Gold Medallion display home near you. You'll find it's an exciting showcase of thrifty, total electric living.

Walking Tours Begin Sept. 11

The third year of performances of Richmond's "Vignettes of the Civil War" walking tours which have received acclaims from all parts of the country and the world since its inception in 1961, will begin September 11 and will be presented each Friday night through October 30.

Each tour group is directed by professional guides who include on their tour of the four historic buildings — the Wickham-Valentine House, the Robert E. Lee House, St. Paul's Episcopal Church, and the Confederate Museum — a walking tour through Virginia's historic capital grounds. The guides point out places of interest there and along the way to each of the shrines.

F. C. Carter In Training On USS Intrepic

USS INTREPID (FHTNC) — Frederick C. Carter, seaman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Carter of Church st., Appomattox, Va., is a crewmember of the anti-submarine warfare aircraft carrier USS Intrepid which recently won the Admiral Finley Memorial Award for its operating safety record last year.

The award is based on credit points for total arrested carrier aircraft landings.

Intrepid is training Midshipmen while a unit of the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean.

Midshipmen aboard Intrepid are receiving practical training in antisubmarine warfare techniques, seamanship, navigation, gunnery and shipboard routine in preparing for duties as a Naval officer.

Cancer Receipts Reach New High

Receipts of the American Cancer Society in Virginia have reached an all-time high of $735,354 for the current year, it was announced today by John D. Buck, of Radford, State Chairman for the 1964 Cancer Crusade.

According to Mr. Buck, this total exceeds the 1964 goal of $725,000 and represents an increase of nearly $35,000 over last year's final total of $700,345. The Society's program year closes August 31 and it is hoped that additional receipts will raise the 1964 total to $750,000.

To date, 64 of the Society's 103 local units in Virginia have exceeded their 1963 receipts.

Minister Speaks Of Teachers' Moral Influence In Classroom

Reverend Thomas A. Waddill addressed teachers of Appomattox County gathered at Appomattox High School Monday morning at the beginning of a two-day planning session before the opening of school Wednesday.

Mr. Waddill told the teachers they "have more influence on the children and ultimately on the people of Appomatox county than any other group of the same size."

He spoke of the various influences in the shaping of a school child's life; his home, the church (if he attends), his playmates, the school, and other minor ones.

"A fact not so widely recognized and acknowledged is that the school plays a major role in the moral development of the child," said the speaker. "Educators are increasingly seeing their task as related to the development of the whole person" he went on, "and not just his intellectual achievements."

The speaker emphasized that he was not talking about Bible reading and prayer, which he termed "religious exercises." "You are agents of the county and state governments, and any religious exercise you conduct in the classroom carries behind it the authority of the state," he said. He stated that the responsibility for religious education rests with the home and with the churches, "which we must not let the government take from us."

"The morality I am talking about," he said, "has its basis in the good of society, the state, and the individual. No society can exist unless certain principals of moral action are adhered to by its members, principles which must be taught— which are not instinctive."

"It pays to be good," he said, "and every school child ought to be taught what morality is and how it pays."

"We begin teaching morality by practicing it ourselves," he said.

Mr. Waddill pointed out as important moral principles 1. The worth of each individual 2. Honesty 3. Justice and fair play 4. Respect for law and order, 5. Calm, objective approach to the functions of sex in the relationship between man and woman.

"Let me reemphasize the fact that you teachers are teaching some kind of morality to your children," he concluded, "and that you have an obligation that it be the right kind, based not upon religious beliefs, but on the needs of society."

"Let us provide our pupils with training which will grow men and women of strong character to keep our nation great and our society strong and free!"

Robert Edward Lee

As softning centuries come and go,
His fame will but the greater grow
The prestige of his spotless name
His country will be proud to claim
The North, the South, the East, the West,
Alike will honor Lee, the best,
The highest, noblest type of man,
Yet genuine American.
In War a sword without a strain,
In peace so gentle and humane,
That hostile critics were unarm'd,
And prais'd the man they would have harm'd
His name, as moveless as the base
Of yonder mountain from its place,
Lee, an immortal cannot die,
Fix'd star in fame's eternal sky,
Where none will ever brighter be
Than name of Robert Edward Lee.

4-H Club DOINGS

The Oakville Community 4-H Club met September 1 at the home of Jane Harvey.

We discussed various items for our individual exhibits in the fair and also discussed the completion of our record books.

Following the business meeting Mr. Norfleet, of J. A. Burks Insurance Company, gave a very interesting talk on the various types of automobile insurance.

After the meeting was adjourned refreshments were served by our hostess.
